

CIVILIAN

ART PROJECTS

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:
July 25, 2009

CONTACT:
Jayme McLellan, 202-347-0022

A NEW CURRENCY: Shared Resources

A group exhibition organized by Civilian Art Projects for 87FLORIDA

August 1 - September 1, 2009

OPENING:
Saturday, August 1, 12-4pm
at 87 Florida Ave NW, Washington, DC

As part of the "First on 1st Neighborhood Art + Music Walk" sponsored by the Pink Line Project and North Capitol Main Street, CIVILIAN ART PROJECTS has cooked up a summer show for 87FLORIDA.

This national exhibition has been organized in conjunction with the New York City based School of Visual Arts MFA 2009 class who instigated a series of exhibitions and projects across the country called "A New Currency" under the direction of curator/professor Dan Cameron.

At a time where everyone is considering the importance of one form of currency or another, Civilian asked the following artists to create new or existing work that shared a common spirit of abundance. In new and imaginative ways, these artists interpret art and ideas as resources with a currency unlimited by monetary definition.

The artists include:

Seth Adelsberger / Nicholas Carr / Anthony Dihle / Carole Wagner Greenwood / Ryan Hill / Erick Jackson / Amanda Kleinman / Kate MacDonnell / Cara Ober / Trevor Young

More information can be found on the SVA's "A New Currency" project here: <http://anewcurrency.blogspot.com/>

Special thanks to artist Trish Tillman for instigating this particular project.

For more information on Civilian Art Projects or for high resolution images, please visit www.civilianartprojects.com or contact us at info@civilianartprojects.com.

GALLERY HOURS FOR 87 FLORIDA ARE BY APPOINTMENT THROUGH CIVILIAN.

*fireworks image, Kate MacDonnell
'found' money drawing, Cara Ober*